Welcome to the 2026 Pan Pacific Masters Games!

It is my pleasure to welcome athletes, officials, supporters and visitors from across Australia and around the world to the Gold Coast for the 2026 Pan Pacific Masters Games.

For its 14th edition, more than 16,000 athletes will compete across 41 sports over ten days of competition, camaraderie and celebration.

The Crisafulli Government is proud to support major events that bring visitors to Queensland, support local businesses and showcase our State as a world-class destination, helping cement Queensland as Australia's events capital.

The Gold Coast is the perfect home for the Games, and I encourage visitors to experience all that Queensland has to offer – from world-class beaches and attractions to outstanding dining, entertainment and natural beauty.

Queensland is the Home of the Holiday, so come for the Games and take the opportunity to discover more of our incredible State.

The Pan Pacific Masters Games celebrate staying active at every age, the friendships built through sport and the shared experiences that keep participants coming back.

I thank Events Management Queensland, sporting organisations, officials and volunteers for bringing these Games to life, and wish every competitor the very best of luck.

Enjoy the competition, make the most of your time in Queensland and leave with great memories, new friendships and every reason to return.

The Honourable Andrew Powell MP
Minister for the Environment and Tourism
Minister for Science and Innovation

What a time to be on the magical Gold Coast, with 16,000 of your closest friends.

The Pan Pacific Masters Games is an event like no other and in 2026, we celebrate the 14th edition of this incredible festival of sport, friendship, rivalry and memories. You are part of history with the 2026 Pan Pacs attracting record entrants across all 41 sports. Get ready for 10 fantastic days with the Gold Coast as the perfect backdrop for your Pan Pacific Masters Games journey.

As Mayor, I welcome athletes, supporters, officials and sponsors from across the globe. Welcome to the city famous for saying YES. Yes to innovation, Yes to world-class events, Yes to great entertainment and Yes to shaping memories which last a lifetime.

The Pan Pacs showcases our world-class sports facilities, universities and natural attractions to the world, while rolling out the welcome mat. This is your time to shine and a chance to explore Australia's favourite holiday destination.

Save some energy for our theme parks, nature trails, 55km of open beaches and incredible dining and shopping precincts.

It's time to say Yes to the 2026 Pan Pacs.

Cr Tom Tate
Mayor
City of Gold Coast

Welcome to the biggest and best biennial masters games!

On behalf of Events Management Queensland (EMQ), we welcome you to the 14th edition of the Pan Pacific Masters Games - where you, the legends, come to play!

This year we are delighted that over 16,000 competitors and supporters from 38 countries and every state and territory in Australia have made their way to our city.

We have more than 1000 participants from New Zealand, 300 participants from Papua New Guinea and a significant number of entrants from the USA, Canada, India, Japan and Mongolia.

This highlights the scale of this event and the enormous impact it has on the Gold Coast economy, with almost 90 per cent of entries coming from outside the Gold Coast – generating an economic impact upwards of $24 Million.

In order to put on the show, over 40 world-class venues are utilised across the city, including five venues that are part of the Gold Coast 2018 Commonwealth Games legacy.

This year we play host to 41 sports including new sports padel and badminton, which makes its return to the sports schedule for the first time since 2006.

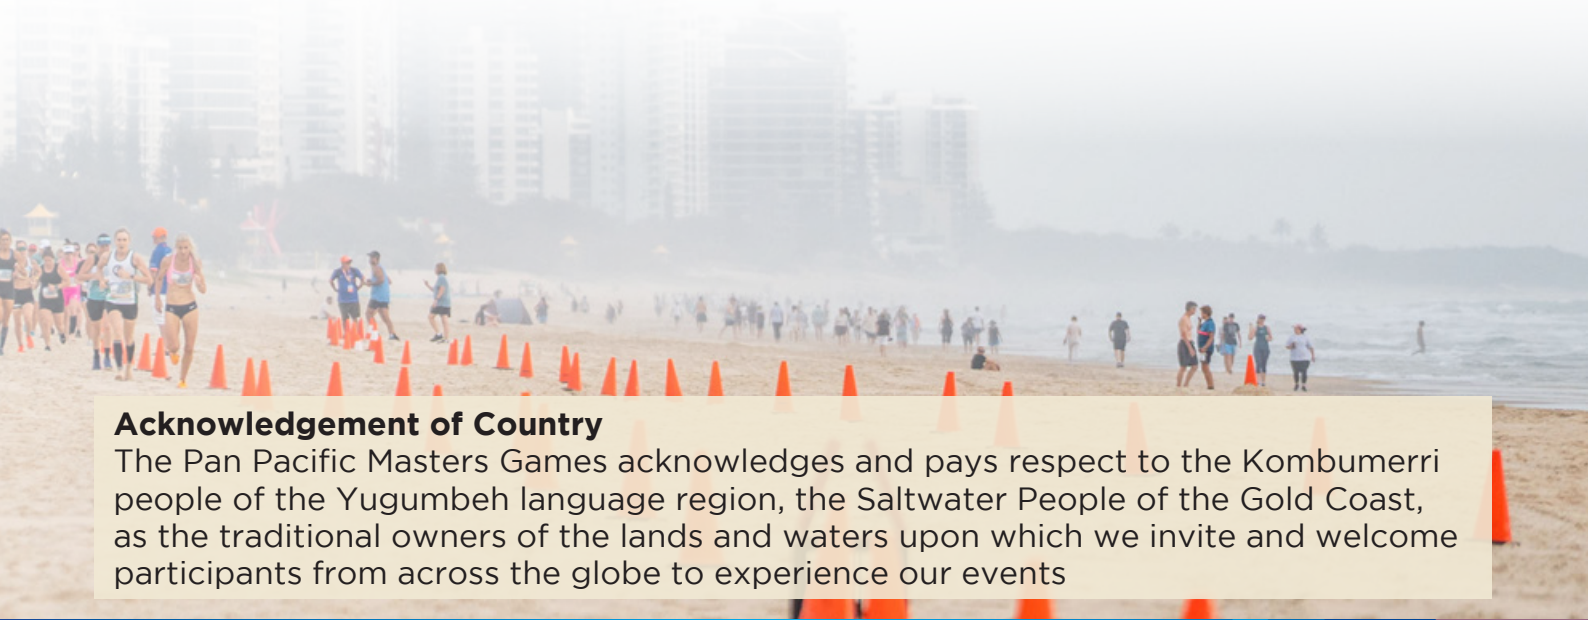

We have been delighted to see entries from all ages ranging from the 18, right through to 90 plus - helping to dispel the myth that masters sport is only for the over 30s.

The Pan Pacific Masters Games is renowned for not only its fierce but friendly competition but also for its entertainment offering at Pan Pacs Central located at the Gold Coast Convention and Exhibition Centre - where teammates and friends, both new and old, can celebrate together.

This year's line-up features The Screaming Jets, country star Casey Barnes, Killer Queen Experience and The Potbelleez. And on those nights when Pan Pacs Central is having a night off, there's a plethora of restaurants, cafes and entertainment options for you to experience right across the city.

On behalf of the team at EMQ, please enjoy being a part of this increasingly popular Australian event and the Asia Pacific region's biggest and best masters' games held in the country's number one holiday and sporting event destination.

CEO - Events Management Queensland

ENTERTAINMENT LINE-UP

The Screaming Jets

With a formidable legacy spanning many years, The Screaming Jets stand as a towering force in Australian music. Their songwriting prowess and extensive catalogue blends rock anthems and heartfelt ballads with the signature harmonies and melodies that define The Screaming Jets distinct musical identity.

Magic Carpet Ride

The party band at every Pan Pacific Masters Games since 2010, MCR returns in 2026 for another round of big singalongs, dance-floor favourites and good times. Fronted by Stu Campbell and Kate White, the band delivers some of the greatest songs of all time, 100% live. From classic rock and pop to '80s anthems, Aussie favourites and current hits, their repertoire spans decades—and their knack for reading the crowd keeps the party moving.

Casey Barnes

Casey Barnes has carved out a reputation as one of Australia's most dynamic modern country artists. Across his career, he has built an impressive catalogue, notching 15 country radio #1s and amassing over 90 million combined streams. Known for his high-energy live show, Barnes has become a festival mainstay both in Australia and internationally.

DJ Desert Rose

DJ Desert Rose is the DJ project of Brisbane singer and GCMA finalist Natalie Pearson. After years on country stages, including Groundwater, Tamworth and Gympie, and supporting The Wolfe Brothers, Travis Collins and Adam Brand, Nat brings a performer's energy to the decks. Expect country anthems, line dance favourites, pop and dance floor classics, all mixed to keep the crowd singing and dancing all night.

ENTERTAINMENT LINE-UP

Killer Queen Experience

Killer Queen Experience will rock you while paying homage to Britain's regal rock quartet with authentic costumes, superb musicianship and an uncanny resemblance that will have you questioning whether this is real life or just fantasy. Endorsed by none other than Brian May, Killer Queen Experience are gunpowder, gelatin, dynamite with a laser beam and guaranteed to blow your mind, anytime.

DJ Jonny Drama

With over 20 years of experience in the events and entertainment industry as a DJ, Beatboxer, TV personality, voice over artist and drummer, there isn't much that Jonny Drama hasn't done. A highly skilled open format DJ, Jonny engages audiences of all ages by playing multiple genres of music and brings a unique energy to every set, event or stage.

Hops and Harmony 80s show – Sing-along

Hops & Harmony delivers a unique singalong experience featuring well-known pop and rock anthems from the 1980s with lyrics on the screen.

Led by host and singer Jamie Lee Wilson, the show is designed to be uplifting and high-energy, encouraging large-scale audience participation and a shared celebration.

The Potbelleez

The Potbelleez are an iconic Australian dance act known for electrifying live shows and multi-platinum anthems including the global hit "Don't Hold Back." From massive festivals to international stages, they continue to deliver high-energy performances and chart-shaping dance music.

PAN PACS CENTRAL

Pan Pacs Central

This is a place where athletes, supporters and spectators come together to connect, celebrate, recover and recharge. Pan Pacs Central will be the 'go to' place for official merchandise, athlete services, interactive wellness sessions and an exciting line-up of live entertainment throughout the event.

From medal engraving and event information to massage, physio and recovery services, Pan Pacs Central is designed to support every part of the athlete journey both on and off the field of play.

Across the opening weekend, the Health and Wellness Hub will come alive with dynamic activations and an engaging exhibition celebrating fitness, wellbeing and active lifestyles. As the week continues, the space will transform into a dedicated movement and recovery zone, offering yoga, stretch and mobility sessions designed to help PPMG athletes perform at their peak.

Pan Pacs Central is dedicated to the athletes, the supporters, the coaches, the partners and those cheering from the sidelines. It's where the Games come to life and the place to celebrate being a part of the PPMG community.

From Michael Jordan to Masters glory: Butch Hays still shooting for success

More than four decades after sharing a room with Michael Jordan at the Chicago Bulls, Australian basketball great Butch Hays is still enjoying the thrill of competition as he prepares for the Pan Pacific Masters Games on the Gold Coast.

The former NBL star, who was drafted by the Bulls in 1984, will line up alongside fellow basketball veterans in a Megabucks team, with the tournament also serving as preparation for next year's international Masters competition in Europe.

For Hays, who just turned 64, basketball remains a lifelong passion. "I'm like an old Holden. If you stop moving, it's going to rust up and seize up, so I just keep moving," Hays laughed. "We've even made a pact that we'd like to keep playing in the 75s or 80s. That's our drive. There's great camaraderie and there's guys coming from all over the country so it's a great way to catch up."

Hays' remarkable basketball journey included being drafted by Chicago in the same year the Bulls famously selected Jordan.

"I always laugh, they didn't draft too many guards that year, and the one guard they did draft was Michael Jordan," he recalled. "It was good luck and bad luck being drafted alongside probably the best player, at least for my generation, to ever touch the hardwood. They ended up rooming us together at rookie and veteran camp, so I got to hang out with him. He's an awesome guy, just a fierce competitor."

Hays subsequently enjoyed a lengthy NBL career in Australia, playing more than 230 games from the early 1990s until 2003. These days, he remains heavily involved in basketball through coaching junior players and competing in regular Sydney competitions.

At the Pan Pacific Masters Games, he will reunite with former NBL players including Joe Hurst and Murray Shiels, with plenty of familiar faces expected among the opposition.

"We're not slam dunking like we used to. We say that we don't run anymore, we shuffle," he joked. "But we're still pretty accurate with the ball. There's always plenty of banter and everyone's competitive, but we're probably more friendly now than competitive. We get together during the tournament, have a drink and talk about how good we were."

With players travelling from across Australia, Hays says the opportunity to reconnect with old teammates and rivals is what makes Masters sport special. "It's amazing to see everyone 40 years on. There's great camaraderie, and it's always a blessing to come back and see the same faces," he said.

"Hopefully we can all stay healthy and keep playing for many more years."

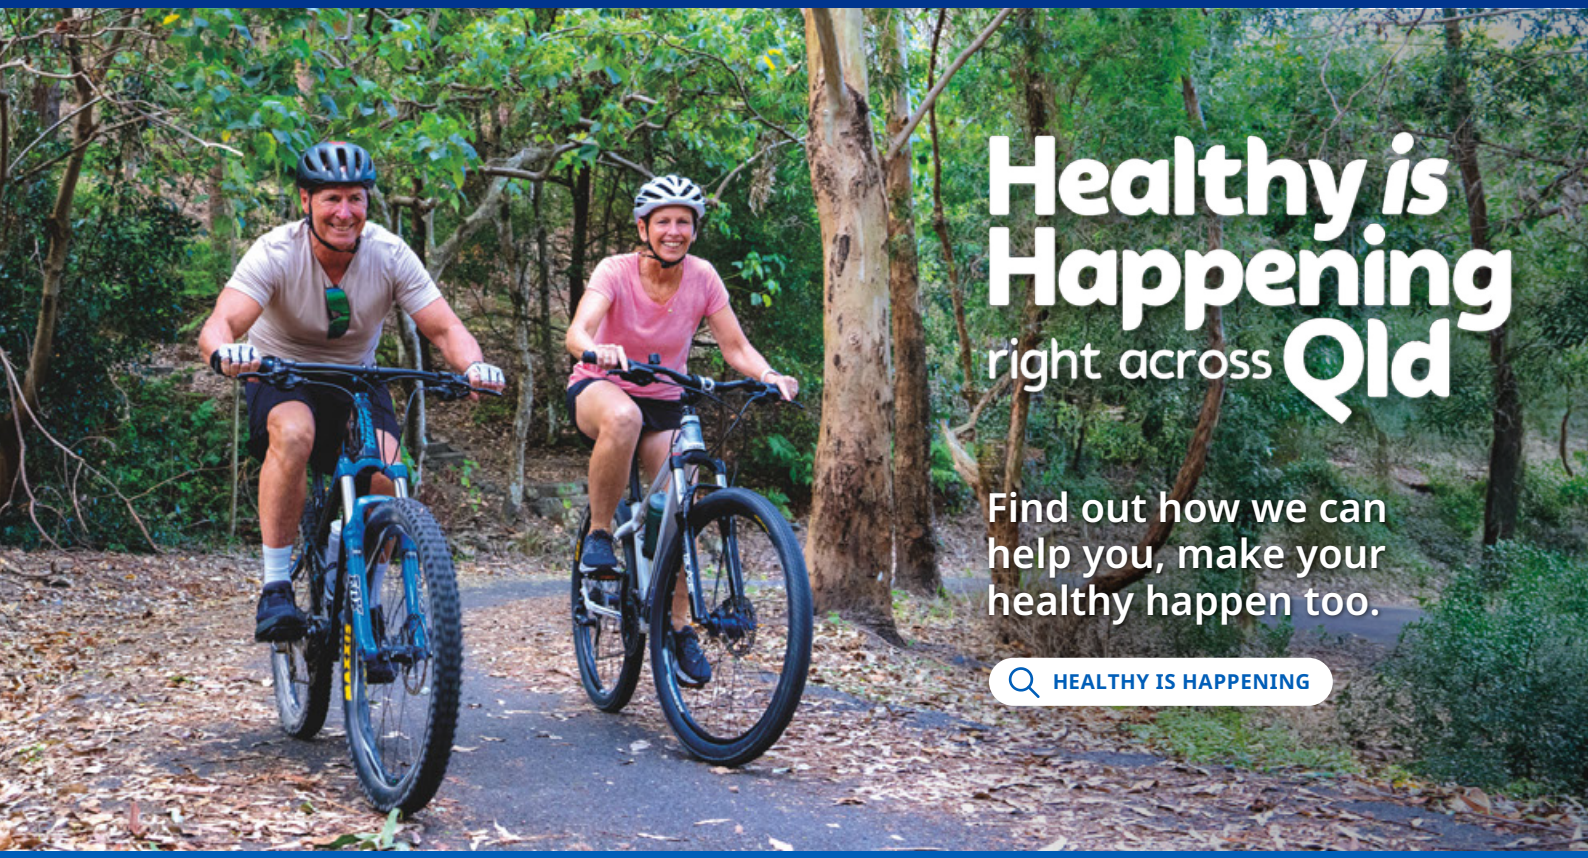

ACTIVE & HEALTHY MORNING MOVE SESSIONS

Wake up. Loosen up. Get ready to play.
7am – 8am - Pan Pacs Central.

Date & Time	Class	Description
Monday 9 November 7am - 8am	Rise, Move & Recover	Start your Games week the right way. This gentle mobility and stretching session will loosen tight muscles, get your body moving and help you recover from competition. A great way to wake up, move well and connect with fellow athletes before the day gets underway.
Tuesday 10 November 7am - 8am	Slow Your Roll	After a big day of competition, it's time to slow things down. This easy-flow session combines gentle movement, stretching and balance to release tension, improve mobility and leave you feeling refreshed and ready for another day.
Wednesday 11 November 7am - 8am	Hold, Release & Recover	Give your hardworking body some well-earned recovery time. Yin Yoga uses longer, gentle stretches to help release tightness, improve flexibility and encourage relaxation. Come as you are, settle in and give your body a chance to reset.
Thursday 12 November 7am - 8am	Breathe, Reset & Refocus	Sometimes the best way to perform at your best is to pause. This guided breathwork and meditation session is designed to help calm the mind, reduce tension and reset your focus. Take 30 minutes for yourself and head into the day feeling clear, calm and ready to go.
Friday 13 November 7am - 8am	Strong Finish	Finish the week strong! This energising yoga session combines strength, core stability, balance and mobility to wake up the body and get you moving. A great way to reconnect with your body, challenge yourself and celebrate a big week of Masters sport.

Rod's locked, loaded and right on target for the 2026 Pan Pacific Masters Games

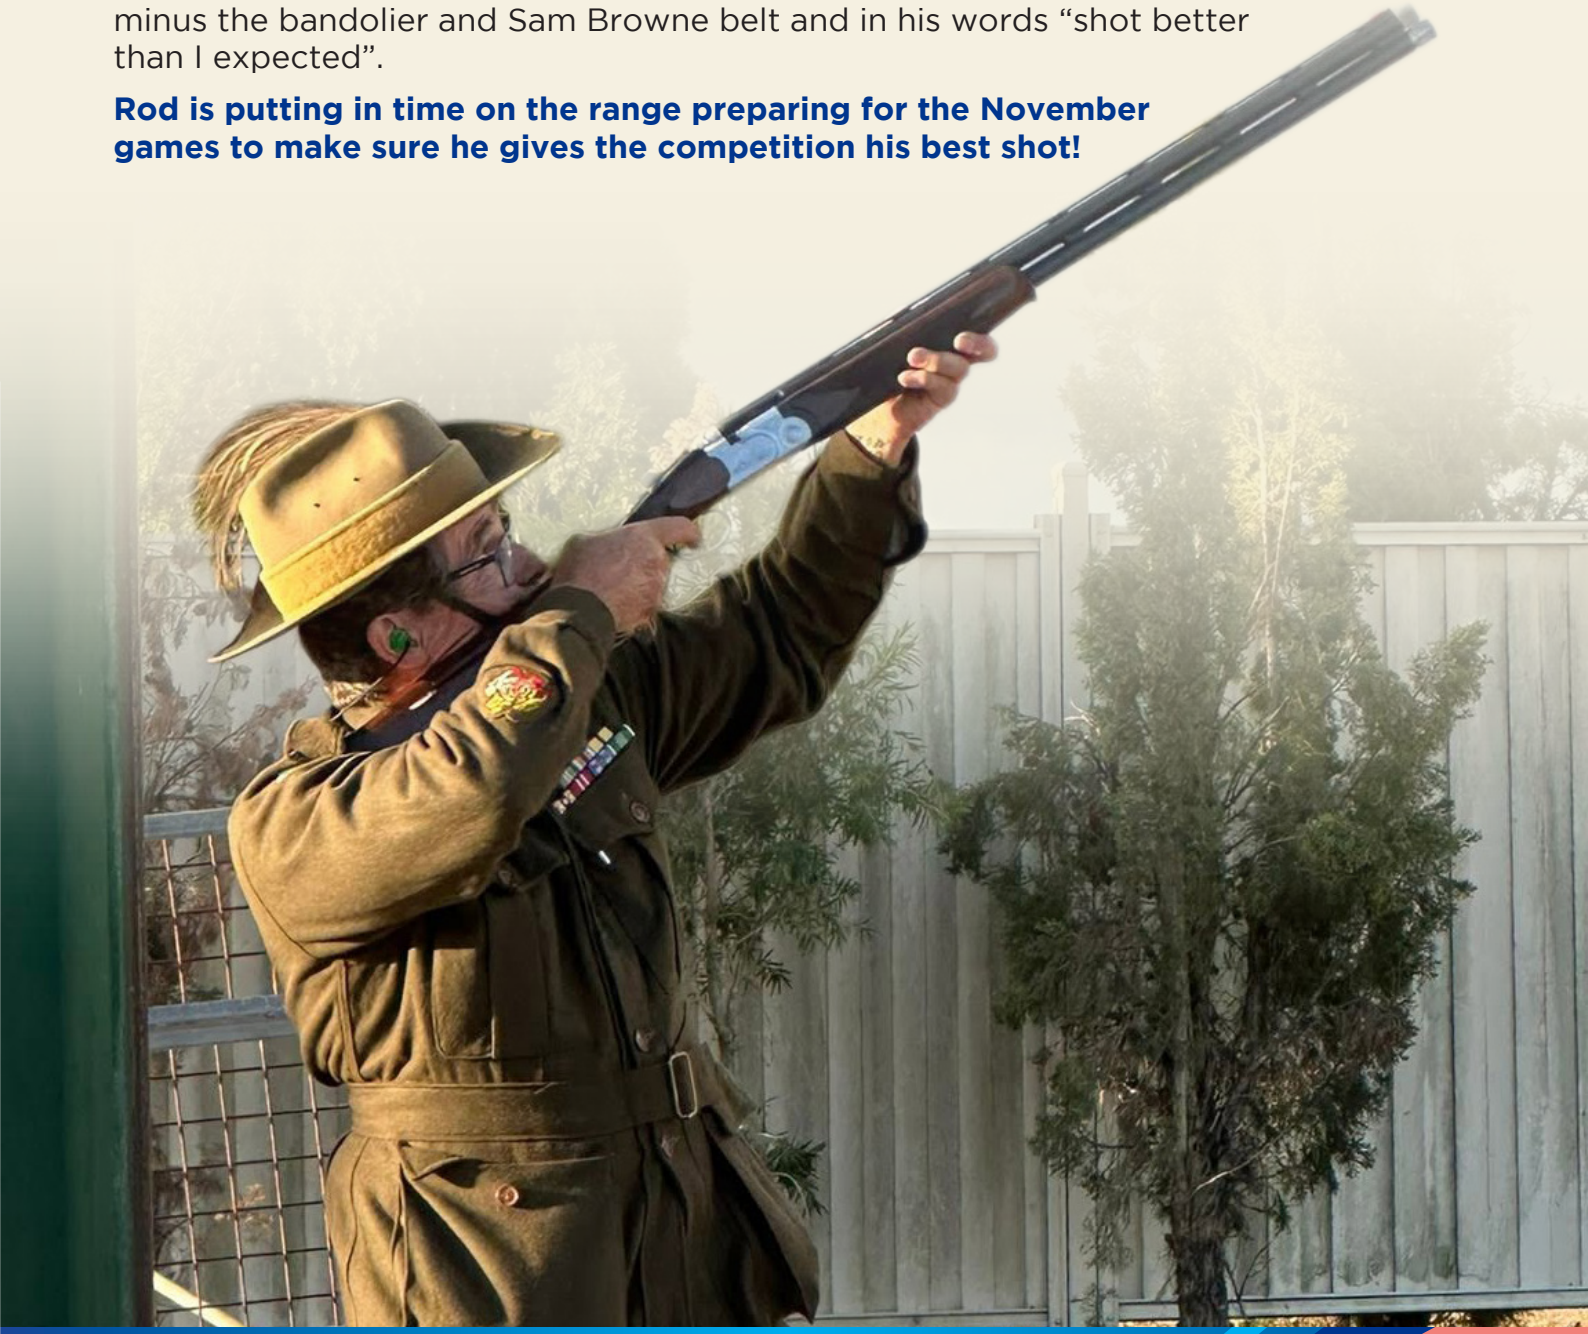

Rod Amos, a semi-retired military veteran with 46 years' service and multiple tours of duty under his belt, is making the most of time on his hands by pursuing his favourite sport and leisure activities and entering this year's Pan Pacific Masters Games.

And Rod is right on target to compete this year, stepping up for the clay target competition – something different for him at PPMG given he boasts a silver medal in archery from the 1994 World Masters Games.

A member of the Australian Clay Target Association with his club based in Charlton, Queensland, Rod will be shooting in the trap, universal trap and skeet competitions being held at the Gold Coast Clay Target Club in Woongoolba.

A passionate member of the Australian Light Horse re-enactment over many years, Rod wears the uniform with pride having been involved in parades all over Australia. Competing in the Toowoomba ANZAC day shoot this year, he donned the regalia minus the bandolier and Sam Browne belt and in his words "shot better than I expected".

Rod is putting in time on the range preparing for the November games to make sure he gives the competition his best shot!

Olympian Kelsey Wakefield set to reach new heights at Pan Pacific Masters Games

Former Australian Olympic water polo star Kelsey Wakefield is preparing for a sporting reunion with a difference at the Pan Pacific Masters Games, where she will not only return to the pool alongside former teammates but also revive a long-forgotten talent for high jump.

The Cairns-based Olympian will make her Pan Pacific Masters Games debut on the Gold Coast, reuniting with players she shared the pool with more than a decade ago.

“I’ve always loved water polo and continued playing since retiring from elite sport, but the opportunity to get back together with girls I played alongside 10 or 20 years ago is really exciting,” Wakefield said.

“We’ve got a combination of players from the two Brisbane National League teams, along with girls who represented Queensland and were involved in Australian squads. Some of us haven’t played together for 10 or 15 years, so it should be a lot of fun.”

While Wakefield’s Olympic water polo career is well documented, her impressive achievements as a junior high jumper are perhaps less well known. From Years 9 to 12, she won four consecutive Queensland high jump titles, competed at national championships and earned selection in an Australian athletics development squad with a personal best of 1.75 metres (which was taller than her own height at the time).

However, as her water polo career progressed, Wakefield was forced to choose between the two sports.

“I’ve always wondered how far I could have gone with high jump if I’d kept doing it,” she said. “When I started getting serious about water polo, I began doing more gym work, which was something I never really had when I was high jumping. I always wondered what I might have achieved with that extra strength, but water polo was definitely the right choice in the end.”

Now, almost two decades since her last competitive jump, Wakefield is preparing to give the event another crack.

“I haven’t done a lot of specific high jump training, just some explosive exercises in the gym, so I’m really relying on muscle memory from about 18 or 19 years ago,” she laughed. “It’s not exactly a sport you can just turn up and do, particularly at Masters age, but the Pan Pacific Masters Games seemed like the perfect opportunity to have some fun with it.”

Wakefield, who still plays social water polo weekly in Cairns, says the friendships forged through the sport remain among its greatest rewards.

“Water polo has been such a big part of my life and I’ve made lifelong friendships through it,” she said. “I had 10 girls I’d played water polo with come and support me at the Olympics. It really is a community and a sport you can play for life.

“We’d obviously love to win at the Games, but more than anything it’s about playing good water polo, having fun and enjoying the chance to catch up with everyone again.”

From Wales to the Gold Coast – inspirational octogenarian pushes through cancer challenges to compete in PPMG ocean swim

At 81 years young, John Bennett could easily be forgiven for putting his feet up and relaxing into later life, but instead the inspirational Penarth, Wales (UK) head swimming coach is bound for the Gold Coast to compete in the ocean swim at the 2026 Pan Pacific Masters Games.

The octogenarian's road to the games has been anything but easy. In recent years he has endured two types of cancer and is now confronting a third diagnosis, facing chemotherapy and all its debilitating side effects with incredible determination.

The chemotherapy is 'nasty', John admitted, but he's decided that the whole regime will not control him …

"Whilst my oncologists have taken great pains to explain the after-effects of radiotherapy and chemotherapy, the reality has been something else! Intense fatigue, loss of appetite, serious stiffness in joints and muscles and the occasional onset of nausea has found me at my most vulnerable."

"The human body is a fantastic piece of machinery and the only thing stopping me, is me. I continue to learn that even at my tender age if you push your boundaries, it's surprising what can be achieved."

Determined is an understatement. John's training for the 2.5km ocean swim is currently undertaken in the 50m pool in Cardiff, the capital of Wales where he clocks up an average of 12km per week. He occasionally braves a wetsuit to swim in the sea off Penarth but readily admits that the cold water is not his best friend.

He'll be making the long trek down under on his own but says he wouldn't be surprised if he runs into fellow ocean swimming competitors he's met at other events including the Solent Crossing between mainland England and the Isle of Wight, the Barbados Open Water Festival and the Nevis to St Kitts cross-channel swim in the Caribbean.

John will fly into Melbourne to reunite with Sarah James, a swimmer he once coached in the UK before the pair make their way to the Gold Coast to compete in the Ocean Swim on Sunday 15 November at Mermaid Beach.

- Sunscreen and ice will be available at every venue.

1300MEDICS

Sun and heat safety

Queensland is a wonderful place to play sport but can be very hot. Vigorous exercise can place some people at risk of heat illness especially in hot weather. If untreated, heat illness can lead to more serious and life-threatening problems such as heat stroke. Listen to your body, do you feel unwell? Maybe rest and slow down. Please take care during the hotter parts of the day.

Warm up before and stretch afterwards

A well planned and structured warm up helps to minimise the risk of muscle tears and strains by improving blood circulation and prepares both your body and brain for exercise and hopefully winning. Don't forget to stretch afterwards to help with fresh legs the next day.

Drink plenty of water

It's important you are drinking plenty of water. A lack of adequate fluids can negatively impact sports performance and therefore increase the risk of injury. Heat related illness like heat stroke is also more likely.

Wear protective equipment

Is your protective equipment such as eye protection, mouth guards, helmets and gloves in good condition and properly fitting? These items when worn correctly can reduce the risk of injury. Have you got the correct shoes for the sport you are playing? Correct shoes should also be considered as protective equipment. Lastly, don't forget your sunscreen and a hat.

Seek advice if injured

Injured? Seek out one of our friendly staff in their familiar blue 1300MEDICS uniforms. If an injury does occur the RICER treatment regime should be followed – Rest, Ice, Compression, Elevation and Referral to a qualified health care professional for an expert and definitive diagnosis and treatment plan.

Olympian Waddell rediscovers passion for swimming ahead of Pan Pacific Masters Games

More than three decades after stepping away from elite swimming, former Commonwealth Games athlete Angus Waddell is rediscovering the thrill of competition as he prepares to make his Pan Pacific Masters Games debut.

The 62-year-old Brisbane athlete boasts a remarkable sporting resume, having represented Australia in two different sports.

Athletics was his first passion, with Waddell earning selection in the Australian team as a high jumper for the 1982 Commonwealth Games in Brisbane. An ankle injury the following year brought his jumping career to an end, but it ultimately opened the door to an unlikely second sporting chapter in the pool.

“I was working near the Valley Pool and started doing a bit of swimming,” he said. “I actually started in Masters because I came to swimming quite late, I was 23. I just fell in love with how good swimming made me feel, joined a squad and started training seriously.”

That journey took him all the way to the 1990 Commonwealth Games in Auckland, where he claimed silver behind fellow Australian Andrew Baildon, before he went on to represent Australia at the 1992 Barcelona Olympics.

After Barcelona, however, competitive swimming took a back seat to work and family life. Waddell remained active through tennis but with the impact beginning to take a toll on his knees and hips, he returned to the pool around three years ago in his late 50s.

“I’d forgotten the feeling you get from swimming and the high that comes with it,” he said. “I’m loving it again. The more racing I do, the more I want to train and get the most out of myself.”

Now a member of The Swim Academy (TSA), Waddell has competed in around six meets over the past three years and is looking forward to testing himself at his first Pan Pacific Masters Games. His program includes his pet event, the 50m freestyle, as well as the 50m butterfly and 100m freestyle, while he has also nominated for the gruelling 100m butterfly.

“I’m not sure what I was thinking with the 100 fly, that might be a bit too hard,” he joked.

While his competitive instincts remain, Waddell says his Games ambitions aren’t about medals.

“For me, it’s all about PBs,” he said. “I just want to see if I can keep getting quicker. Over the past few years I’ve been able to chip away and improve a little bit each time, and that’s such a good feeling at my age. Whatever result comes from that is a bonus.”
